

Firehydrant explodes, water everywhere

A firehydrant burst yesterday evening on Bop Street. A truck lost control of its brakes and drove into the hydrant which sent water into the air. Driver of the truck, Morten Hildabuppen, 56 cooperated with officers. The truck hit in front of Smiling Cow Dairy, which was closed for four hours. Water was shot more than 70 feet in the air and the hydrant will be fixed during the week.

Llama scares people, taken away

The llama at the Bumble Zoo has been taken away. The llama, named Billy, has been scaring more than 1,000 people while he made a loud high pitched screaming. "I went to the zoo a few weeks ago and when I walked past his cage, he started screeching!" said Edgar Boppaturtle. Billy will be transported to Venezuela to join his other llama friends. "This is quite a sad procedure." said zoo worker Timmy Lingobotton. Billy will be taken away and will be replaced by a rare Walmabuffen (a relative of a mongoose) from Borneo.

PEACE TELL

I went to Palau by plane and had an interesting time. When I got into the airport, I got quite confused of which level I was on to park (it was level 6 space 74). My plane would take off at 4:00 PM, so I arrived at the airport at 10:00 AM. I had quite a bit of time, so I went to get some food. I went to World Peace Sweets and looked for my favorite cabbage cakes. I saw that they were all gone, which made me very angry. So, I threw a potted plant, but missed and hit a guy who was holding lemur cages. He smashed me over the head and punted me onto the arrivals and departures board, which fell with me on it and I landed on a luggage belt which was headed to a plane going to Finland. Just before I was to go into the plane, I leaped off and back onto the ground. I found my luggage and went off to walk around. When it was 3:50, I went onto the plane and totally freaked out when I saw the slit between the walkway and the plane. I stopped and scooted across, then, the lemur guy screamed "Hurry up all ready!!" I fell onto the plane and was quite startled. I found my seat and asked a flight attendant if I could get a glass of orange juice. I waited 15 minutes and did not get my orange juice. I went to find the juice and I discovered it was actually prune juice, but unfortunately AFTER I drank some. About an hour later, I fell asleep and accidentally pressed the bring the flight attendant to my seat. This made 26 flight attendants come by. One of them pulled my chair back and I fell onto a man who was using his computer. He snapped his computer onto my head. I screamed and a lady bopped me on the head. I kicked the baggage compartment and all the luggage fell onto me. The plane then turned around and I was taken off the plane. The police arrested me for disturbance and I am now not allowed to go onto Nobjoggin Airlines.

J. J. Jellyfish Missing

Lagoon neighbor J. J. Jellyfish is currently missing. He was reported missing yesterday around 4:45 PM. "I was going to the supermarket and saw him swimming really fast," said Otto Octopus. J. J.'s last location was near lagoon city limits. Lagoon Police officers were sent out to find Jellyfish while others went in a submarine too. If you know where Jellyfish is, call (500)-111-644.
