

Q-POP Concert Gets Rowdy

Popular rapper Q-POP's concert got very crazy last night. Around 7 pm, someone released Rob the Chinchilla, the mascot of Q-POP, from his cage. He jumped atop an unidentified victim, this led to a wild chase during Q-POP's song, Stinky Feet (Smell Them Good). Many other animals were sent from cages including toads, bats, badgers, raccoons, kookaburras, and a large possum during the song Attack Da Pudding (Cogetree 2.7). A few hours later, a man sat onto another man and the man on the bottom began to scream. An angry woman stuck a seat cushion into his mouth which led to an all out fight that included a popcorn vendor getting robbed and losing all his popcorn. Police were called to the scene to calm things down. The rest of the concert was much calmer.

High winds Alert Includes Large storm

A high wind alert is in effect from today at one in the morning until Tuesday at 9 am. The alert includes a large storm that could bring more than two inches of rain to places like Wigg or Yalcabuck. Bumble is expected to get about one and a half inches of rain.
