

Prappa da Rappa Vandalizes Building

Rapper and friend of Fluff Daddy, Prappa da Rappa was found guilty of vandalizing a building. "He spray-painted my house!" Morna Ognos, 59 of Dumping said. Police went to Prappa da Rappa's house and told him he had to come to the police station. He will have to clean toilets at the HART station as his punishment.

Happy day of birth to our editor Luke Firoozye!

I went to Laughing Monkey Park on Monday and had an interesting time. The park is on an island in Oreo Bay that is connected to Dumpling. I went there to walk around. There is a large hill in the middle of the park that you can only get to by broken down minivan that has peace bumper stickers on it. There is a legend that says that there is a weird, heavily-bearded hippie who sits atop the hill. About 15 minutes into my trot, a man fell out of a tree holding a teapot. He was wearing a turban and a nice little vest so I assumed he was a genie. But all of a sudden, he said, "You get free tea from Jakabauskas Tea Shop for a year!!" I said, "Oh, no thanks, tea gets me all hyper and I totally lose it." The guy climbed back into his tree after that. I continued to walk for about an hour when I came to the hill. I went past a tree so I could get into the minivan that only sort of worked. But, a falling apart piñata suddenly said something. "You have been selected Mr. Fuzzy," it said, "you need to get some corn milk from the Aubagongbillna tree that is next to a large stone." I was freaked out that the piñata would start to chase me if I didn't get the corn milk, so I obeyed the command. I climbed into the minivan and it began to go up the hill. No one knows how it has been working since the hippie day and age. When I reached the top of the hill, a sad walrus came by and said, "we have heard you have been selected. Follow this path to the Temple of Sap." I walked along and came to the Temple of Sap where a burrito with eyes said, "Go into the temple and retrieve some sap so you can put it in the cauldron by Pollogomuffin's grave." I went inside and got some sap and put it in the cauldron.

There, a walkway appeared and I could go across the large opening that was in my way from a flat rock. On the rock a man sat "Yo-yo fellow peace maker!" he said. It turned out to be the weird hippie I talked about earlier. "Oh dear weird hippie who lives on the hill, please show me the way to the Aubagongbilla tree," I said. "Oh. It's just over there next to the car that comes up the hill the other way," he said. Wait. There's an other way? I ran over and grabbed the little pot next to the Aubagongbilla tree. Next to the pot, a little sign said, "vibrate the tree with a branch from it." so I did that for half an hour until a gallon of Yarlabucksonohippa juice was in the pot. "Very good my fellow peaceful friend," the hippie said, "Your prize is a ride down the hippie-on-the-hill zipline! Just look out for the rabid raccoons at the bottom!" I went down the zipline and failed to meet any rabid raccoons. Oh, I forgot to tell you, people know that Laughing Monkey park is really weird. When I was walking back to my peacemobile, a loud yodel erupted from a tree. I looked up and the weird peace hippie was singing. "Bye-Bye Mr. Fuzzy!!!" he screamed. I walked to my peacemobile and drove back home. But, that was one of my weirdest trips besides the one with the chickens thinking my name is Joshua.

FOOD REVIEW

by Frederick Turstington

J

I went to the chocolate weasel and had an interesting experience. The first thing was that when I asked for some water with ice, the waiter said,

"No más, amigo. Nuestro poco se secó y no se puede conseguir un poco de agua. Podríamos darle nuestra barril de manteca de cerdo, si lo desea." I didn't understand what he was saying so I asked for another waiter. "salutations mon bon ami. Je vous ai entendu demander de l'eau, ai-je raison? Notre singe dans le flétan langue est très bonne," the new waiter said. I was very frustrated so I "arrghed" and "ahhed" a lot. "Oh you want me to speak in english?" he asked.

After that, my spaghetti came. The fork was dirty so I asked for a new one. "I shall plunge it into my heart to clean your fork," the french waiter said. Then, the dessert came. This was the reason chocolate weasel lost a star. The cake was REALLY dry and the strawberries looked like someone had nibbled at them. It was pretty quiet, but when university Bumble won the basketball game, it sounded like a wild baboon stampede. Overall, this place is pretty good. A place for 3-5 people in a party.

BUMBLE BEES

The Bees will try to get another World Series after last year's win but it won't be easy. The Dumpling Dragons are projected to have 25 more wins than last year. Every team in the Bees division have improved. The Hornets acquired Yabel Urbanez and the Warriors signed Avisail Garcia to an eight-year contract. The Bees signed Ahtyba Rubin and Rheal Cormier, while trading for Samuel Deduno and Aramis Garcia. The Bees lost Bryan Peña and Diegomar Markwell to Japan and Esteban Yan, Franklin Morales, Felix Pie, Joakim Soria, Socrates Brito, and Roger Bernadina to free agency. The Bees tried to sign Sergei Rahimo and failed. If the Bees want to win the division, then they will have to allow rest to Wade Smiley, but use Pedro Ciriaco and Arvganis Solarte a lot. The Bees need Arquimedes Caminero to pitch well after finishing last year 6-4. The bullpen is key. Carlos Truinfel had a 3.49 ERA, which is his career high. Ramon Troncoso and Eury Perez were the only relievers who had an ERA below 3.00.

DUMPLING DRAGONS

Last year, the Dumpling Dragons hit 108 home runs. That is the lowest in team history. That was why the Dragons signed Octavio Dotel and Deolis Guerra, two power hitters who hit 99 home runs combined. The pitching is needed. DJ Illunga-Mbenga was 13-10, but had a 5.94 ERA. Their outfield is one of the best in baseball and the infield committed only 4 errors during spring training. They are projected to have 91 wins this year. The last time Dumpling won a division title was when Samuel Abeajenga was their manager in 1992.

HLB preview con.

TEMPLETON TIGERS

The Templeton tigers were one of baseball's best teams at home. They were 61-20 at home and 26-55 on the road. That was partially because the offense hit .471 at home and the pitching staff gave up 11 earned runs. Kirk Nieuwinhuis hit 35 home runs last year, but only hit 1 homer in spring training. This will be Joshua Eggbanuffen's first season as a tiger and he will try to have a better season after he finished 5-13 last year.

WEASEL WARRIORS

When the weasel warriors acquired Gerald Umpqua, he was injured throwing his first pitch in a bullpen session and is out 15 months with a torn labrum. That has been a theme with them and they can't get through it. Luckily, they signed Jair surriens to help in the bullpen. They will probably finish in 3rd place at 83-79.

HOPOT HORNETS

Since Drew stubbs left in 2010 the Hornets have had some various finishes. Here they are: 4th, 4th, 5th, 4th, 4th. Every year they get a good player, they trade them away at the trade deadline and miss the playoffs. The Hornets tried to finally get to the playoffs by signing Ikenesaw. Mountain-Landis to a two-year deal after Bumble released him and signed Avelles Hernandez to a one-year contract. Even with these deals, they still are projected to have 73 wins. They lost Ahtyba Rubin to the Bees, but got Odubel Herrera. This year could be a great one, or a busto.
