Badger attacks Fuzzy, steals pants

A small nosed badger attacked Dr. Warren Fuzzy early Saturday morning and stole Fuzzy's pants. Fuzzy had been climbing an oak tree, when a badger poked his head out of the tree and started pecking at Fuzzy's nose. "I was so mad I threw a stuffed duck at the little monster's head." Fuzzy did not comment on why he had a stuffed duck in an oak tree. After a while, Fuzzy tried to stick his hand in the badger's nest. However, the badger bit his hand and pulled Fuzzy's lips into the nest. Fuzzy got out and was climbing out, but the badger grabbed the pants and pulled them back into the nest and hid. Fuzzy was given a check to buy new pants.

The party will go from 9am to 7pm and everyone will play football from 3 to 4. Later they will watch NFL Bumble versus Nopot at 5:30.

Dr. Warren Fuzzy Peace Tell

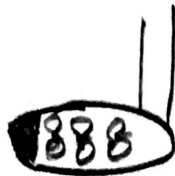

NOVEMBER 27, 2015 B

I went to Fluff Daddy's Thanksgiving party and had some odd times. First of all, I could not find parking until I parked in some guys driveway who was out and about. When I got inside the only person there was Aunt Edna, who kept on burping while hogging all the pretzels. When everyone showed up, Uncle Friedrich drank just a tid bit too much and started singing "Eeeaa ooooh dee wood!" It was quite alarming to see a 78-year old man singing mongolian spiritual songs. After that disturbing experience, I went to get some food. However, Aunt Edna was sitting there and I'm still a bit terrified that she can eat a bowl of pretzels in three seconds. It was around 120'clock, so I went outside to talk with Nature Ned. But all of a sudden, Maynard Buttsworth jumped over Fluff Daddy's next-door neighbor's fence. Maynard managed to get onto the fence, but he did not get a lot of height, so he flopped over the side and into the baby pool that held Friedrich, Timmy and Pudge. Everyone went inside after that, because Maynard has many friends and there could've been more of them coming. We had turkey, but James ToFu forgot to take off the plastic wrapping and Terrance Youngbutt had to run down to the store to get a new one. Later, people went outside to play volleyball, while others got the best party. The only mishap was when Terrance Youngbutt hit the ball and it hit Uncle Friedrich (still singing) who toppled out of his lawn chair and into the kitty pool. James ToFu called us back in and said he made goat feet dipped in rancid mayonaisse and a side of tofu that looked like it had been in James' fridge for ten years. Luckily, widow Piskens gave everyone cake, (except for Nature Ned who said he was on a diet, even though he weighs 13 pounds, (probably because he eats ferns every day)) we went back outside and for some reason, Uncle Friedrich was still singing in the baby pool. Everyone went back inside after that. It was time to go then, but when I could not find my car I realized that there was a little sticker on Fluff Daddy's door. It said "Dear Mr. Waffle Fluffy, I had your car towed since it was in my driveway. Harold snortwease!" I had to walk all the way across Bumble to get my car back and when got it back it only had three leaves left. (I have a leaf powered car) That meant I would have to find some oak leaves in a gas station. I managed to find some after cars left, but now I will have to throw away my 'peace is love' shirt, considering it reeks of gasoline.

Rollo Gull took a big tumble yesterday evening. He had been trying to get some clams, when Berry Bear ran over and bumped into Rollo. Rollo tumbled into the water below and was not hurt.

Able Fable Missing

Professor Able Fable has not been seen for the past three days. The last time someone saw him was when Gerdinho Dolphin saw him in a lagoon. "I've looked everywhere," said Terrance Gull, who is part of the search team.

Timmy Turkey has protest

Since Thanksgiving is coming up, Timmy Turkey began a DEFTT (Don't Eat Turkeys For Thanksgiving) Protest. He has gotten help from Berry Bear, Lester and Chester seal, Lolo Crab and Eustace Elephant. The protest began around Lagoon Street and went until Ocean Avenue in Seaville, and went from 10'clock in the afternoon until 3 o'clock. The protest needs more helpers and if you are interested, call (83) DEFTT.
